A string instrument (or stringed instrument) is a musical instrument that produces sound by means of vibrating strings. Guitars are plucked and strummed. Guitars come in all shapes, form and sizes. See if you can work out the names of each guitar.

A ______ guitars are made of wood and have a large hollow body. They can sometimes use a speaker.

E ______ guitars are wired so that they can plug into a speaker. They come in all shapes, sizes and colours and can produce very unusual sounds. They are very popular with bands especially within rock music.

B ______ guitars are slightly heavier than an electric guitar and can have 4, 5 or 6 strings. They produce deep, low sounding notes. They are a modern, more affordable alternative to using a double bass.

The B______ has 4 or 5 strings and uses a drum. It is common in folk, country and bluegrass music.

The U______ is the smallest member of the family and has 4 strings. It is cheap, popular in schools and very easy to play.

The M______ has 8 strings and a violin style body. Its unusual light tone is popular in folk and bluegrass music but has been used by rock bands REM and Led Zeppelin.
